At Raff Angus we put greater selection emphasis on Calving Ease rather than Birth Weight. We believe small to small has a natural diminishing effect on Growth and Weight for Age.

Whilst we measure everything measurable, including actual in-herd carcasses hanging on the hook, we place greater emphasis on Maternal Strength, Phenotype and Weight for Age.

Raff Angus bulls must have good bone, strong muzzles with well hooded eyes. They must have width of topline, depth of flank with hindquarter expression. They must have frame size, be good footed and have head carriage with the ability to cover territory with ease. They must be masculine. They must be tough.
